

FOREIGN PRESS ON KNOX'S NOTE

State Department Not Inclined to Pay Much Heed to Adverse Criticism.

PLAN IS BEING CONSIDERED.

No Doubt Entertained as to Wisdom of The Policy That Was Suggested.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The state department has not received any direct official expression from the foreign governments interested regarding Secy. Knox's recent note suggesting neutralization of Manchurian railroads and officials refuse to attach much importance to the view of some foreign newspapers unfavorable to the proposition. In some instances the newspapers are known not to be in the confidence of their governments, nor to exert any potent influence in shaping their policies. This is believed to be true, especially as to the Japanese press.

It is known at the state department that Mr. Knox's neutralization suggestion is receiving most careful consideration in the chancelleries of the powers interested, and because of the exceptional importance of the matter it is not thought replies reasonably can be expected for some time.

The department entertains no doubt of the wisdom of taking the Manchurian railroads out of eastern politics, thus minimizing the danger of war, and believes no country would profit by such a course more than Japan.

Baron Uchida, the new Japanese ambassador, it is believed, expressed the views of his government, in an interview recently published in Tokio in the course of which he is reported to have said:

"America's stand in regard to the preservation of peace and the integrity of China has been and will be exactly identical with ours. We must always understand that America's policy toward Japan and the Orient as a whole has always been on the same peaceful route."

This expression by Baron Uchida, which has just become known here, is highly satisfactory to the officials of the state department.

WEST POINT MAY FACE RACE PROBLEM

Denver, Colo., Jan. 12.—United States army officials are likely to face the race problem as the result of the examination for appointments to West Point academy that is in progress at Fort Logan. N. R. Smith, a negro of Cheyenne, is likely to qualify as a successful candidate, having obtained a percentage of 91 physically and mentally in his preliminary examination. Smith obtained his appointment through Senator Clark. It has been several years, it is said, since a negro student received an appointment to West Point.

FATAL WRECK ON O. S. L. PONY TRAIN

Polio, Jan. 13.—Engineer William B. Busted of 72 North Eleventh street, was killed, Fireman Victor C. Eggers, of 115 West Main street, was seriously wounded and two passengers were fatally, though not fatally injured, as the result of a wreck which occurred at Arcadia, Oregon, the first station on the other side of the Idaho state line on the Oregon Short Line railroad at 5:30 o'clock yesterday evening, when west bound passenger train No. 402 known as the "pony" crashed into westbound extra freight train No. 904 as the latter was backing from the main line into the siding where it had been ordered to wait until the passenger had passed. According to a statement made by Engineer Busted before he died, his engine was leaking so badly that the escaping steam obscured his view and he did not see the freight ahead of him until it was too late to reverse his engine.

The force of the collision knocked several freight cars over, and the engine, baggage car and one coach of the "pony" were turned over. Engineer Busted was terribly injured, his chest being crushed in, his left arm broken and his flesh cooked by the escaping steam. He was rushed to Nampa, but Fireman Eggers was also badly scalded, but it is believed that he will recover. Conductor Ready, brakeman Adams and all the passengers on the "pony" escaped serious injury.

TWO MEN RESCUED THIRTY ARE LOST

Steamer Czarina Struck on Coos Bay Bar and Was Totally Wrecked.

SAVED WERE WASHED ASHORE

One Tells How Some Were Clinging to Forward Mast—Very Little Hope for Any.

Marshfield, Or., Jan. 13.—Of the 32 men on the ill-fated steamer Czarina, which struck on the Coos Bay bar yesterday and was practically wrecked, two have been rescued and there is a possibility of five more including Capt. Dugan and Harold Mills will be. Harry Kentzell, first assistant engineer was picked up unconscious in the breakers late yesterday and early today Second Assistant Engineer J. Robinson was washed ashore. Some hours after Kentzell was revived he regained consciousness sufficiently to state that Capt. Dugan and Harold Mills, the only passengers, had been bound to one of the masts.

Robinson added that when the forward mast, to which he and five others had climbed, went by the board, the master, first officer, Mills and two seamen were still alive in the after rigging. These Robinson said were the only ones left on the ship. Watchers on the beach soon after Robinson was rescued declared that they observed a light flare up for a brief period from the wreck, which was taken to mean that the five are still alive.

The night was a trying one for the watchers who continually patrolled the shore since darkness fell. Among these were C. J. Mills, the steamship agent of the Southern Pacific company at Marshfield, and his wife. Early in the night they gave up all hope of ever seeing alive their son Harold, a boy of 20 years, who had just left them bound for college. When Kentzell was rescued hope for a moment sprang up, only to be dashed to earth again by the assertion of H. J. McKeown that he had seen through marine glasses both masts of the Czarina and a rope ladder carried away and with them their burden of 15 men.

STARTED IN GALE.

The steamer left port last evening during a gale. Tremendous seas were breaking over the bar as the Czarina attempted to pass out into the ocean. Those on shore who had gathered to watch the departure of the boat suddenly were startled to see the Czarina sweeping toward the north spit. Her engines apparently had been disabled. The heavy seas seemed almost to envelop the steamer, and she drifted rapidly on to the spit at a point about a mile above the jetty. The disabled vessel pounded heavily, while great waves swept over her.

The crew crowded into the rigging and could be seen making frantic gesture for help, while hundreds on shore, among them C. J. Mills, manager of the steamship company, whose son was on board the Czarina, were compelled to stand by and see man after man washed overboard.

So rough was the sea that all efforts of the life-saving crew to launch a boat were in vain, while attempt after attempt to shoot a life-line from shore across the vessel also failed.

The distance was too great.

As darkness fell only a few of the crew were seen to be clinging to the wreck, but it is not believed that any of these can survive the night.

COLUMBIA PREPARING FOR CANCER RESEARCH WORK

New York, Jan. 13.—Columbia university has appointed a committee to make plans for the cancer research work which is to be taken up under the provisions of the $1,500,000 bequest of George Cooker, a California millionaire who died here recently. It will probably be a year before the trustees of the university come into possession of the fund.

A thoroughly trained scientist will be appointed as director of cancer research. His first work will be to prepare a report showing facilities for cancer research now in existence and summarizing available literature on the subject of cancer.

It is probable that this report will be published within six months.

FOREST SUPERVISORS IN CONVENTION

Ogden, Jan. 13.—Two hundred forest supervisors of the Fourth district, who are holding their annual convention at the headquarters here, interrupted the proceedings of their meeting for five minutes yesterday afternoon to join in a demonstration following the reading of an Associated Press bulletin which announced the appointment of Henry S. Graves of the Yale forest school to succeed Clifford Pinchot as chief forester and of Albert P. Potter, who resigned the former chief at last week's convention of the National Woodgrowers' association, to be associate forester. The supervisors, most of whom are from the Yale school, gave vigorous vent to their enthusiasm and general gratification with the president's appointment was expressed.

The day's session of the convention was taken up with a consideration of national forest settlement, the chief feature being a technical address by C. E. Morse of the Targhee national forest with headquarters at St. Anthony, Idaho. Supervisors from a number of
